DRESS YOUR SPACE.

Something about spending time in Greater Palm Springs invokes an urge to redesign your space. It is a mecca for design, after all, and there's a reason so many interior decorators live, work, or visit to shop here. We realize you may not want to buy a full living room set on your vacation (though our local vendors will ship to your home), but we're happy to recommend showrooms that stock one-of-a-kind objects that are easy to pop into a carry-on while you're on the go. On El Paseo in Palm Desert, a growing design district includes Dragonette Limited, known as one of the foremost destinations for furnishings by William Haines, but you'll also find whimsical desktop sculptures and fine art. Visit Tommy Bahama Home, one block away, to bring resort relaxation to your home with some of the best candles you can find and artisan-made wares curated for this storefront. Down the street, Fig + Nash specializes in home accessories, furniture, and lighting. In Palm Springs, vintage apparel and one-of-a-kind design objects prevail at Market Market, and colorful Tiki wares take the spotlight at Dazzles in Rancho Mirage.

DEEPLY DESERT.

For midcentury-inspired home goods and wearables, head to Palm Springs favorites Destination PSP or The Shag Store, where you'll find Tiki-inspired art and housewares by Josh "Shag" Agle. From artwork to apothecary, nearby Mojave Flea Trading Post houses a plethora of vendors under one roof, while desert-themed wearables and home goods star on the shelves at Windmill City Super #1. For traditional Native objects, visit the newly opened Agua Caliente Cultural Museum gift shop for a selection of beaded jewelry by local Cahuilla artist Emily Clarke and ollas by Joshua Tree's Tony Soares (of Algonquin and Azorean descent). In Coachella, Temalpakh Farm, operated by the Augustine Band of Cahuilla Indians, vends an assortment of Indigenous-made crafts, textiles, and T-shirts in addition to freshly harvested produce.

CHRISSEY ARMSTRONG

Owner, Chrissy's on El Paseo and Chrissy's Kids & Gifts

Following the success of her women's boutique, local retailer Chrissy Armstrong recently expanded by opening a second storefront on El Paseo in Palm Desert for gifts and kids.

Trends for summer:

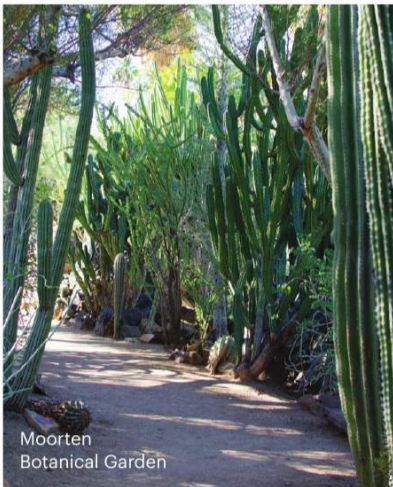

Layer different patterns. It's a very elevated European look. One of our brands, Me369, does this beautifully. They mix floral, plaid, and geometric patterns on a single piece. When it comes to kids, it's all about the bamboo pajamas and clothing.

Best spot for a bite on El Paseo:

Chef Sally at Sweet Basil is known for her naanwiches, but my favorite thing to order there is her mista salad with blackened salmon. I probably go to Kitchen 86 + Bar once a week and get their boom boom shrimp. It is absolutely phenomenal.

The best time to shop:

Because the summer is our off season, if people take a stroll down El Paseo, the deals and steals that you can get in all the boutiques are amazing. There are some incredible finds because we put so much on sale in the summer.

Moorten Botanical Garden

A LIVING MEMENTO.

Potting up plants for generations, Moorten Botanical Garden in Palm Springs not only makes for a gorgeous photo-op, but you can pick up a small cactus to take home. A favorite for event design, Lotus Garden Center in Palm Desert has a great selection of succulents and cheery patio fixtures that will bring a touch of desert whimsy to your garden at home. Bob Williams Nursery in Indio may be one of the area's largest nurseries, visited often by local landscapers, but it's also a great spot to find earthenware pots and tabletop planters.

Visit a local market.

Every Thursday night, Palm Canyon Drive in Palm Springs closes for the city's signature pedestrian street fair, VillageFest, featuring food, shopping, and entertainment. While many farmers markets close for season during the summer months, the Certified Farmers Market in Palm Springs moves indoors at the Palm Springs Pavilion. Visit on Saturday mornings for fresh eats and artisan goodies. In Indio, the Maclin Open Air Market on Wednesday and Saturday evenings is a fun stop for fresh produce, collectibles, and crafts.

NOMA BRUTON

Docent, Coachella Valley History Museum

After retiring with her husband in Rancho Mirage, Noma Bruton was searching for a way to honor her longtime love for art and history. She found it as a volunteer for the Palm Springs Art Museum and Coachella Valley History Museum, where she leads tours and directs visitors. cvhm.org

Your favorite historical fact about the desert:

Indio was a railroad town connecting the Southern Pacific Railroad from Yuma to Los Angeles. They needed to find a spot in the middle so that the workers could change shifts. The entire town built up around that.

Best way to spend a summer day:

We can't underestimate the uniqueness of the Palm Springs Aerial Tramway for a hike.

See this at the Coachella Valley History Museum:

The Japanese Garden. Many Japanese American farmers and ranchers were interred during WWII, and our community rallied around them to take care of their farms and make sure they had a place to come home to. The garden is dedicated to them, and their descendants were involved in its creation.

INDULGE YOUR FLAIR FOR THE DRAMATIC.

Historically, Hollywood types fled to Greater Palm Springs to unwind away from the cameras. But these days, talented local chefs often score screen time. Several eateries won the Guy Fieri stamp of approval on the Food Network series Diners, Drive-ins, and Dives, including Gabino's Creperie and El Mirasol in Palm Springs, Grill-A-Burger in Palm Desert, Chula Artisan Eatery in La Quinta, and Sherman's Deli & Bakery in Palm Springs and Palm Desert. Fieri endorsed the torta ahogada at Pablo's Tacos & Beer in Indio. Morgan's in the Desert

FARM-TO-TABLE CUISINE.

Though local farmers are predominantly lauded for dates, they grow a cornucopia of crops over some 41,000 cultivated acres. Palm Springs' aptly named Farm makes the most of that bounty, as do dreamy date night spots such as The Penney at Desert Island Country Club in Rancho Mirage, Daniel's Table in Cathedral City, Morgan's in the Desert at La Quinta Resort & Club, and The Barn Kitchen at Palm Springs' Sparrows Lodge. MARCEL RAMIREZ

Owner, Gabino's Creperie

Growing up in the desert, Marcel Ramirez snacked on many a crêpe, courtesy of his Argentinian father. When he launched his brick-and-mortar eatery in Palm Springs in 2020, Ramirez did things differently: He serves mainly savory bites, inventing off-the-wall recipes like a Philly cheesesteak crêpe and one with Buffalo chicken.

Your favorite crêpe on the Gabino's menu:

Turkey cheddar. It's light and fresh, since it's warm out here most of the year. We have chimichurri in there with our secret sauce. It's super good but still feels healthy.

Best spot to get a bite when you're not having a delicious crêpe:

Mr. Lyons and Bar Cecil are nice dinner spots. I like to go to the Ace Hotel's Amigo Room and Las Palmas Brewing. Heyday Burger is a big one. The Sandwich Spot is another favorite.

A hidden gem you like to recommend:

El Tranvia in Coachella. Their tortillas are flour, and they're handmade. These things are out of this world, and the carne asada is crazy. It's cooked on flame and not on a plancha. These are the best tacos I've ever had, even in Mexico.

Reconnect at Sands Hotel & Spa in Indian Wells, a 46-room property with chic Moroccan vibes designed by Martyn Lawrence Bullard. In Rancho Mirage, Sensei Porcupine Creek (where the minimum age is 16) markets itself as the valley's only six-star resort. Founded by tech pioneer Larry Ellison and Dr. David Agus, a physician and scientific thought leader, the resort emphasizes well-being access to just about any amenity you can dream up. The Spring Resort & Spa in Desert Hot Springs features three naturally heated mineral pools, staff-led yoga classes, and wellness shopping. Nearby, Two Bunch Palms also provides access to the natural hot and cold mineral water that lends the city of Desert Hot Springs its name.

There's something undeniably restorative about this oasis. Lean into it with a screen-free getaway.

Marvel at the stars.

What does the constellation Orion look like? Does Mars really appear red? Find out at the Rancho Mirage Library and Observatory. Free to the public, the observatory features a research-grade CDK 700 telescope capable of penetrating into deep space to view distant galaxies. Its rotating dome opens to the night skies for clear star viewing, and an outdoor observation deck allows visitors to set up their own telescopes. For a prime view of the sky without equipment, treat yourself to a scenic drive to Joshua Tree National Park. Recognized as an International Dark Sky Park, the area allows for stupendous views of the Milky Way, meteor showers, and the Summer Triangle, an asterism of three bright stars.

Rancho Mirage Library and Observatory

Immerse in the arts.

Fuel your own creativity in the airy galleries at Palm Springs Art Museum, where you can see Los Angeles-based artist Alake Shilling's funky, vivid paintings (through Aug. 5) and the late Norman Zammitt's arresting chromatic canvases (through Oct. 7), among other works. Palm Desert's Melissa Morgan Fine Art hosts artists such as Anthony James, who is known for his mind-boggling geometric light sculptures. Nearby, Coda Gallery in Palm Desert represents thought-provoking contemporary artists who specialize in everything from acrylic paintings to sculpture. Pick up a modernist memento at The Shag Store in Palm Springs, showcasing the quirky, midcentury-inspired prints of SoCal staple Josh "Shag" Agle.

PLAN A DATE DAY.

Dates were imported to Greater Palm Springs in the late 1800s when agriculturalists discovered the land suited their growth, and they have since become the region's top crop. Rich in fiber and loaded with essential vitamins and minerals, the date may be sweet, but it packs a nutritional punch. Ordering the Coachella Valley's unofficial signature drink, the date shake, is a rite of passage. Among the most popular places to get it: Shields Date Garden in Indio. Windmill Market in North Palm Springs is another favorite. For a savory way to get your date on, many restaurants incorporate the fruit in appetizers, salads, entrées, and even cocktails. Head to LG's Prime Steakhouse in La Quinta or Palm Springs for bacon-wrapped medjools or Cork & Fork in Indio for a vegetarian version stuffed with blue cheese and drizzled with chive oil. Farm, located in the charming La Plaza shopping center of Palm Springs, spreads housemade date jam on a brie sandwich and incorporates chopped dates in the chicken salad recipe.

DIP INTO HEALING WATERS.

Soak your stress away while reaping the benefits of the naturally mineral-rich hot springs that bubble beneath the Coachella Valley. Resorts in Desert Hot Springs tap into these ancient waters, warmed by geothermal activity occurring deep underground. Among them: Desert Hot Springs Inn, which offers a pet- and cannabis-friendly boutique experience; El Morocco Inn & Spa, specializing in Moroccan-themed spa treatments and serving traditional Moroccan teas; Two Bunch Palms, the country's first carbon-neutral resort; Azure Palm Hot Springs Resort & Day Spa Oasis, with a mineral water lap pool; and others. Only one venue provides access to mineral waters in Palm Springs: The Spa at Séc-he, operated by the Agua Caliente Band of Cahuilla Indians. The luxury spa shares the curative properties of the Agua Caliente Hot Mineral Spring, which has long been a sacred space for the tribe. Get a day pass, which includes mineral water access, or book a massage, facial, or alternative treatment such as cryotherapy or flotation.

Clean eating and fresh juices.

Now with three locations in the United States, Native Foods got its start in Palm Springs. The flagship vegan restaurant prepares hearty dishes like plant-based chicken tenders, vegan brisket burgers, and sweet potato fries. Chef Tanya's Kitchen, with locations in Palm Springs and Palm Desert, serves ready-made vegan deli foods and snacks that can also be found at any Tower Market around the valley. If you prefer to drink your meals, Fresh Juice Bar blends yummy concoctions at outposts in Palm Springs, Palm Desert, La Quinta, and Indio. Family-owned Fruit Wonders in downtown Palm Springs makes organic smoothies and wellness lattes. In Coachella, Temalpakh Farm, operated by the Augustine Band of Cahuilla Indians, features a smoothie bar — order one and treat yourself to a stroll through the pollinator corridor.

Desert AFTER DARK

Greater Palm Springs comes alive after the sun goes down. Cozy up at a cocktail bar, delight in a wide array of entertainment, or place a bet at one of the many casinos.

INTIMATE BARS.

Cocktail-forward bars abound in Greater Palm Springs. A stop at Seymour's, the speakeasy at Mr. Lyons in Palm Springs, is mandatory. Slide up to the bar at Parisian-inspired Bar Cecil for a French 75 or snag a dimly lit table for a tasty rum concoction at Bootlegger Tiki, both also in Palm Springs. In Palm Desert, check out Libation Room or Le Fe Wine Bar. In Cathedral City, The Paloma Resort harbors a speakeasy called Poca Sombra.

TRY YOUR LUCK.

Head to one of the many local casinos for dining, entertainment, and of course, slots and table games. Agua Caliente Casinos has locations in Palm Springs, Cathedral City, and Rancho Mirage. (Insider tip: Catch a renowned act at The Show, located at Agua's Rancho Mirage location.) Fantasy Springs Resort Casino in Indio and Spotlight 29 Casino and Augustine Casino in Coachella offer great selections of games, entertainment, and late-night dining options in the East Valley.

Lounges and live music.

In Indian Wells, Vicky's of Santa Fe has been staging live entertainment over dinner and drinks for 35 years and counting. Nearby, locals line up around the block to get into The Nest for a nightcap and dancing. Bart Lounge in Cathedral City pumps up the volume during DJ and game nights. For a calmer vibe and Rat Pack-era throwbacks, Melvyn's Restaurant & Lounge keeps the glitz and glam alive in Palm Springs, providing the quintessential backdrop for a dirty martini, shaken not stirred.

ASK A LOCAL

BRYAN JIMENEZ

Bartender at Truss & Twine

Originally from Los Angeles, Bryan Jimenez has called the Coachella Valley home for more than a decade, working behind the bar at noteworthy venues like Workshop Kitchen + Bar and Truss & Twine. Here, Bryan shares his favorite tips and recommendations for summer.

What's the best summer drink at Truss & Twine?

The Naked and Famous is made up of mezcal, lime juice, Aperol, and yellow Chartreuse. A love child of the Last Word and the Paper Plane, it's incredibly refreshing and not too tart.

Where is your favorite hangout?

Las Palmas Brewing holds a special place in my heart. Or, if it's too hot of a night here in the valley, I enjoy the quiet (and cooler) nights up in Pioneertown at Pappy + Harriet's.

Best spot for a late-night snack?

I'd have to go with Blackbook. I adore the staff there, and the spicy chicken sandwich is amazing!

DRAG IN THE DESERT. Drag rules in this community! Catch a brunch show at One Eleven Bar in Cathedral City or Oscar's in Palm Springs. For late risers in Palm Springs, Boozehounds hosts drag lunch on Sundays, Ace Hotel & Swim Club does drag bingo and trivia Monday nights, and Toucans hosts one of the longest-running revues in town.

Reforma Palm Springs

Dance it out.

Greater Palm Springs has several bars and clubs where you can dance the night away. Reforma Palm Springs ups the ante with a raised DJ booth, bottle service, and one of the largest dance floors in town. In the LGBTQ+ friendly Arenas District of Palm Springs, Chill Bar is a favorite for friendly service and danceable DJs in the back bar. Check the calendar for country nights and live music at Jackalope Ranch in Indio and dimly lit dance parties at Cascade Lounge at Agua Caliente Casino in Palm Springs.
